Smile

Smile when you miss her

Smile when you mourn

Smile when it gets hard,

Because that's what Meemaw would want
Always remember when you start to cry,
If Meemaw was here she would dry your eyes
I know in my heart that as long as we speak
Of her beautiful smile
And loving touch
That Meemaw will always be here though it's tough
Remember in your heart
When you hear her name
That Meemaw loves you
Sunshine or Rain.

“ I am so sad by Leslie's passing. I will miss her sweet presence. The first time I met Leslie was about 3 years ago when Hospice asked me to come to do nails for Leslie's dad, Johnny. I knew when I first met Leslie that she was an exceptional person of love. A house of happy children, a baby and a sick Dad. I have continued to come even after Johnny died. She is a precious sweet friend. We have shared life stories and I have been inspired by her gentle loving spirit. Her children were her life. She adored her husband. She has left you a treasured legacy of happy memories filled with love. I know she is sleeping peacefully and will awake when Jesus comes. I pray that you will find hope in the promises of God, and that God will give his peace and comfort that only he can give.

“ I don't know how to even begin something like this. But I will start by saying I am broken hearted and extremely saddened over the loss of a woman that I called friend for years. I was honored to once been neighbors with Leslie and her family for many years. Leslie and I spent countless days and evenings together talking about life, grandkids, husbands and what we could paint and redecorate next. She was like a sister to me and I loved her dearly. She helped take care of me when I was very very sick and needed around the clock care. She was there to help me plan and put together a graduation party for my son. She was the one I needed by my side when that same son left for the army. Till this day I have NEVER met anyone else that constantly loved and gave of themselves as much as Leslie Ledford. She loved her children and grand children unconditionally and was so proud of each one. She and her husband Greg had a marriage that a lot of people longed for. Their love and affection for each other was something I compared to as a Hallmark movie kind of love and that's exactly what I told her many times. They was the example of what a marriage should look like and I learned from that. I thank God that I was allowed to spend the time with her that I did and for that I am forever grateful. I love you my friend and I will be seeing you one day soon and we will paint each other's fingernails and talk again ☐
