Mike was definitely one of a kind. I have been friends with him since I met him over 20 years ago. He never failed to make me laugh - no matter what I had going on. He was a true friend. Family was the most important thing in this world. He loved his parents - and took care of his dad daily since his sweet mother passed. His son, Brock was his pride and joy! He only loved one thing more - and that was his grand babies! He talked about them constantly and would show me pictures of them every time I saw him. He has always been one of the realest people I've ever met. Always Mike.
