“ Trey was such a fun-loving person. a few times I would be at his grandmamma powell's house , he would walk out from the store to check on her. they would sit and talk and would laugh and she would have a big grin on her face , when he would tell her how much he loved her fried tators , she would always say, well I can fix you some now...he would always smile and say , you rest now and I will come back another day....and that visit would just make her day...So Rip Trey and I know you and your grandmamma and all of the others are keeping the angels entertained. You will be missed by so many.
